

I'm a creative leader focused on designing experiences that work as beautifully as they look. My background spans web, brand, interactive media, print, packaging, and Product UX, with experience in art direction, design, marketing strategy, user testing, and cross-functional collaboration. I'm equally comfortable shaping big-picture brand strategy and refining the details that make an experience work.

More recently, I've integrated AI into my creative workflow to accelerate ideation, prototyping, and production—using Replit for interactive builds, v0 for web experiences, ChatGPT for creative exploration and image generation, and Gemini for development and automation. Combined with my experience in UX, A/B testing, and visual design, these tools help me move from idea to execution faster and create experiences that engage users and drive results.
